

Kay Hubbard ~ Watercolours May 22 to July 3

Kay was born in the heart of farmland in southern Illinois and now lives in Pickering. The stunning scenery of Ontario cottage country has combined with love of nature and early experiences of barns, farms, and fields of flowers to feed a keen interest in landscape painting.

Kay completed courses in Art Education at the University of Illinois and has taken many interest courses over the years in drawing, printmaking, design, painting weaving and textile arts. Her primary interest prior to the last five years has been fabric arts, tapestry weaving, stitchery, and batik. Watercolour has magically taken hold of Kay in recent years. Kay has a doctorate from the U. of Toronto in Education and has spent many years as an Adult Educator, Organization Development Professional, Coach, and Management Consultant.

I am a Lewis Carroll devotee. The watercolour medium takes me through the "Looking glass". In a world where paint continually surprises me and I am always in awe there is just one result - I am "curiouser and curiouser".
